

From: Mortal Sage <mortalsage@mortsage.com>

To: 'Ratifieddoc'

Date: 12/8/2007 7:49:25 PM

Subject: RE: Cat-long shot but maybe

Lisa,

Thank you so much for your tenacity, and yes, you never know until you know... and karma's energy is still freely flowing out there -- I can feel it and I wish for his return every moment ...

Your plan to snap a pic and email it to me will work perfectly... Thank you, Lisa, for your love of our furry kindred souls... I have 5 cats here at home with me in Walnut Creek which I rescued from a Shelter in Maine many years ago and who flew over here with me in addition to Karma... yeah, it was a sight to see -- two young women flying from maine to California with 6 cats!! I'm sure the airline staff had much to talk about for quite some time... lol

Until we speak again,

gina

-----Original Message-----

From: Ratifieddoc [mailto:ratifieddoc@aol.com]

Sent: Saturday, December 08, 2007 4:34 PM

To: mortalsage@mortsage.com

Subject: RE: Cat-long shot but maybe

Dear Gina, I wish it WAS a joke, in thaat then there would be no lost kitty running around my neighborhood and I would not be up half the night trying to track down his owner.d But, it's no joke. These are such great pics you sent, I can see you love your Karma. The kitty I have been seeing is thinner, but that is no surprise if he has been on his own a while.

What I am doing is keeping the camera by the door. You know, I have 6 feral cats here (don't tell the neighbors)-three inside, and three prefer to be outside. So I feed some of them outside and that is why the Maine Coon came to my door, and how I happened to see him (I keep the door open while they eat, so I can protect the kittens from raccoons), I think.if I can get a photo I could email it to you immediately-then when I call you can look at it immediately and see what you think,- you can see him before you chase over here in the middle of the night. Would that work?

Best wishes, and again it's long shot but you never know-my sister in Maryland rescued a cat (a Maine Coon, actually), and posted it all over, looked in old, old ads-found someone whose travel trailer had overturned in the snow weeks before, 300 miles away, who lost one-and who came to see. He was in fact their cat! It made the Washington Post. So, you never know until you know.

Lisa

-----Original Message-----

From: Mortal Sage <mortalsage@mortsage.com>

To: 'Ratifieddoc' <ratifieddoc@aol.com>

Sent: Fri, 7 Dec 2007 10:11 pm

Subject: RE: Cat-long shot but maybe

Lisa,

Firstly, I would like to say that if for some reason this is a joke, shame on you... Secondly, if you are sincere, thank you so much for the email...

I don't think it would be Karma who you saw but we did stay in Berkeley for 10 days when we first arrived in California and I will not discount the possibility that he was returning to the hotel where we stayed... in that case

, I will give you my cell phone number so you can call me if you see him again... His name is Karma and he will respond (I think) if you call him by his name... if you keep some food in your pocket (in a package that crinkles
like tin foil or a hard plastic packaging) he has been trained to respond positively to those noises... he knows that food is soon to come :)
lol...
he has also been taught to respond to a manual can opener or banging on a tin can with a spoon... it might be a trick that would attract him if it happens to be Karma... I will attach a few more pics of him for you as limits the total to 4...
CL

If you are blessed to encounter Karma please don't hesitate to contact me immediately at 207-622-2920 and I will literally jump into my truck and come to you immediately... please forgive whatever attitude I may exhibit if you happen to wake me from a dead sleep as I have been known to be callous and irritable upon first waking... :(but, as soon as you say the name
Karma
I'm certain I will pipe up and straighten out... lol that moment will be such a blessing it would be impossible for me to be the least bit grumpy...
:)

So, on that note, here are some other pics that might help ...

Thank you,

Gina

-----Original Message-----

From: Ratifieddoc [mailto:ratifieddoc@aol.com]
Sent: Friday, December 07, 2007 9:17 PM
To: comm-500852896@craigslist.org
Subject: Cat-long shot but maybe

 CRAIGSLIST ADVISORY --- AVOID SCAMS BY DEALING LOCALLY

 Avoid: wiring money, cross-border deals, work-at-home

 Beware: cashier checks, money orders, escrow, shipping

 More Info: <http://www.craigslist.org/about/scams.html>

Hi-I don't have a photo, and am very unsure about it-there is a Maine Coon style cat that has been running in our neighborhood since Nov. He came to my door once around midnight (I feed 2 ferals) and was running up the sidewalk half a block away another night.

Since I haven't seen him regularly, and I walk the neighborhood nightly, I don't know if it would be worth it for you to come looking. But if you will send your phone number, and I see him again, I will call you at any hour you say.

Lisa in Kensington on the border of El Cerrito (on the other side of Wildcat Canyon).

510 558 9005

Is there any chance he could have hitched a ride herein the back of a gardener's truck or other truck?

More new features than ever. Check out the new AOL Mail ! -

<http://o.aolcdn.com/cdn.webmail.aol.com/mailtour/aol/en-us/text.htm?ncid=aolcmp00050000000003>

this message was remailed to you via: comm-500852896@craigslist.org

More new features than ever. Check out the new AOL Mail ! -

<http://o.aolcdn.com/cdn.webmail.aol.com/mailtour/aol/en-us/text.htm?ncid=aolcmp00050000000003>